

Brief profile of Dr. Tejinder Kaur

Dr. Tejinder Kaur (b. 1957) is working as a Professor of English at RIMT University, Mandi Gobindgarh, Punjab. She has earlier served at Punjabi University, Patiala as Professor of English, where she held key positions including Head, Department of Distance Education; Dean, Faculty of Languages; Director, Centre for Diaspora Studies; and Coordinator of IGNOU Study Centre, Patiala. She is also serving as Honorary Professor in the School of Languages at Jagat Guru Nanak Dev Punjab State Open University, Patiala.

With over 42 years of teaching and 37 years of research experience, Dr. Kaur has guided more than 60 M.Phil. and Ph.D. scholars and continues to mentor many more. She has authored, edited, and co-edited 12 books, including three collections of poems, and published over 70 research papers, reviews, and articles in reputed national and international journals and anthologies.

Dr. Kaur has been an active participant and resource person in more than 180 national and international conferences, workshops, and webinars, and has chaired sessions, delivered keynote and valedictory addresses, and given numerous extension lectures. Her poetry has featured in global anthologies, and she has received recognition through several poetry awards. She has also been invited to share her insights on Edusat, AIR, Doordarshan, and other media platforms.

Beyond academia, Dr. Kaur has organized more than 35 conferences and scholarly events, and contributed significantly to translation projects with Sahitya Akademi, New Delhi, and Punjabi University, Patiala. She has served on advisory boards, selection committees, and panels of several universities and public service commissions .

Dr. Tejinder Kaur's scholarship, creativity, and leadership in the field of English Studies and Diaspora Studies have made her a distinguished academic and a respected voice in literature and higher education. is working as a Professor of English at RIMT University, Mandi Gobindgarh,

Punjab. She has earlier served at Punjabi University, Patiala as Professor of English, where she held key positions including Head, Department of Distance Education; Dean, Faculty of Languages; Director, Centre for Diaspora Studies; and Coordinator of IGNOU Study Centre, Patiala. She is also serving as Honorary Professor in the School of Languages at Jagat Guru Nanak Dev Punjab State Open University, Patiala.

With over 42 years of teaching and 37 years of research experience, Dr. Kaur has guided more than 60 M.Phil. and Ph.D. scholars and continues to mentor many more. She has authored, edited, and co-edited 12 books, including three collections of poems, and published over 70 research papers, reviews, and articles in reputed national and international journals and anthologies.

Dr. Kaur has been an active participant and resource person in more than 180 national and international conferences, workshops, and webinars, and has chaired sessions, delivered keynote and valedictory addresses, and given numerous extension lectures. Her poetry has featured in global anthologies, and she has received recognition through several poetry awards. She has also been invited to share her insights on Edusat, AIR, Doordarshan, and other media platforms.

Beyond academia, Dr. Kaur has organized more than 35 conferences and scholarly events, and contributed significantly to translation projects with Sahitya Akademi, New Delhi, and Punjabi University, Patiala. She has served on advisory boards, selection committees, and panels of several universities and public service commissions .

Dr. Tejinder Kaur's scholarship, creativity, and leadership in the field of English Studies and Diaspora Studies have made her a distinguished academic and a respected voice in literature and higher education.